Prof. O. Seiling and wife arrived home from the east Monday afternoon and are again at their home at 500 North Adams street. These people are among the highly talented musicians of the West, and all Sierra Madre welcomes them home.

CHINA FAMINE FUND IN U. S.

We seem to be getting calls for relief from every corner of the globe. Now it is the starving Chinese. There are forty-five million famine sufferers in North China. Of this number more than fifteen million are doomed to death from starvation.

There have been three crop failures in succession, and much of their last seed grain has lost its fertility in the baked soil.

Contributions will be received at the First National Bank, payable to H. B. Allen, chairman of the local committee.

$3 FOR OPEN MUFFLER

C. N. James passed over three dollars Wednesday morning in police court for driving on North Lima street Sunday night with the muffler on his auto oven.

FORMER RESIDENT DEAD

Mrs. R. N. VanDorn, aged 80 years died at her late home in Highland Park, Monday, the 28th. The VanDorn family were early settlers of Sierra Madre, and those familiar with this city's early history will remember them. Mrs. VanDorn was an aunt of Mrs. R. J. Lord, 52 West Grand View avenue.

Funeral services were held from the Turner Stevens & Berry undertaking parlors in South Pasadena on Wednesday afternoon, interment in Sierra Madre cemetery.

NOTICE OF SHOW

A splendid program has been arranged for the next motion picture show to be held at the Club house on Wednesday, March 9. The feature of the program will be "The Americano," a Douglas Fairbanks picture. An animated cartoon and an educational weekly also will be shown.

There will be two performances, one at 3:15 in the afternoon, especially for the children, and one at 7:30 in the evening for the public.

All the teachers will be present to collect money and maintain order at both programs. No children will be allowed at the evening performance unless they are accompanied by and sit with their parents or some other grown person.

Prices: Children 15c; adults 25c. Patronage to these shows will be greatly appreciated by the school children who are trying to raise enough money to buy materials for a motion picture screen, so that educational pictures may be shown at the school in future.

WHERE DO THEY GET IT?

A Sierra Madre resident living on Central avenue had an overload of "hootch" Wednesday night and protested the payment of taxi fare from Los Angeles. A call from the local police quieted matters.

THE HAPPY LAND!

I heard the children singing as they rested from their play
The song, "There's a Happy Land, Far, Far Away!"
Heaven is a happy land, yet I could not agree
To sing, "There is a happy land far away"—from me!
Experience hath taught me, and truly do I know
There is a happy land—for Christians—here below!
And this brings many abessing, beyond words to tell—
The Lord is here—beside me—and, therefore all is well!

And let there be a hotel built in this town.

In the passing of Col. William H. Holabird the West loses a valuable assistant in the building up of this great country. His was a life of action. He accomplished things. Many are the tributes that have come to the home this week since the Colonel died. He had lived in Sierra Madre but three years, but during that time this little city has been greatly benefited. The flag has been placed at half mast and the city honors the memory of this man.

After hearing the address of Judge Ben Goodcell before the Associated Chambers of Commerce at Arcadia Tuesday night, we wonder if the war is over. The wise ones say we are sitting on a volcano. What sort of a volcano can this be? Is the war not over? Must we be told that our government is all wrong? Cannot this wonderful Republican party and the Democrats in prosecuting the great war program, bring calm out of what the campaign managers have chosen to call chaos? We have been promised great things. In fact, we believe the promises or at least some of them, will be fulfilled, and we don't think that this is the time to alarm the country with Saturday Evening Post patriotism.

Champ Clark is dead. He died as he wished—with his political boots on. He had planned retirement to Bowling Green after March 4, but the end found him serving his country. And he served it well. We would have liked to have seen him president. His massive physical frame housed the delicate embodiments of a wonderful character. Some have said that the stout heart of the Missourian had been shaken by political defeat. We think not. He idolized his three-year-old grandson and namesake, Champ Clark Thompson, and when the little fellow died a year ago, those who knew the senior Clark best, noticed a waning of the keen interest he took in public affairs and when he became sick two weeks ago, little hope was entertained for his recovery.

Today Woodrow Wilson leaves the White House and ceases to be president of these United States. In our opinion, in face of all the obstacles, the bitterness, party prejudices and vile propaganda, he has been a wonderful president. Perhaps we would not think so had we not been afforded the opportunity to watch him and his movements at first hand. He cared not for public opinion. He cared not for party opinion. He had nothing to gain when he left the president's chair, and all to lose, but he did what he thought was right. Like Theodore Roosevelt, he was a poor politician, but instead of the "big stick" methods his was the austere, and through his leadership more thorough legislation was enacted by both branches of congress than had been enacted for twenty-five years prior to March 4, 1912. Public opinion is a merciless teacher and task master, and any man, no matter who he is, who serves this country as president, must feel the sting of the lash, criticism.

Woodrow Wilson will live to see the day when the people of this country will bow their heads and honor him, as they have honored other men whom they have cast out.

The result in the movement in the Democratic National committee for a party reorganization seems to be, so far as any result can be ascertained, that there will be no reorganization—for the present. The decision, probably is as wise as any decision of a defeated party can be. It has always been so. There seems to be no reason for any special hurry as the Democrats do not have any appointment to keep anywhere. Whatever there is to be done for the Democratic party, time alone can do it probably easier than any other agency, and fortunately for them, they have plenty of time. There is some question, too, whether in view of the constitutional function of the Democratic party, it is necessary that it be organized at this time. Democrats do not win elections because they are organized. They win because the Republicans are disorganized. Time, hope, a little money for overhead expenses is all the Democrats will need for the next year anyway. Meanwhile they can be watching the Republicans, for the Republicans are a much better bet—NOW—than any possible reorganization could be.

LEAVE THE ORANGES ALONE

Cheap as oranges there is no excuse for people to steal them. Considerable complaint has been made by property owners along Central that the workmen for the Pacific Electric have helped themselves to the oranges adjacent to Central avenue without the consent of the property owners. If foreign labor is ever to command the respect of the American people, they must be taught to respect the property rights of others. Leave the oranges alone.

MEETING OF ASSOCIATED CHAMBERS AT ARCADIA

The Associated Chambers of Commerce of San Gabriel Valley held the regular monthly meeting at the City hall in Arcadia on Tuesday evening. A fine dinner was served by the ladies of the town, the tables being artistically decorated with acacia and marigolds and a pleasing musical program was given during the dinner. Sixteen members of Sierra Madre Chamber of Commerce attended.

President Shultis opened the business with a few witty and complimentary remarks on the hostess city. Arcadia had adopted for her new slogan "The Home of the Peaceful," and Mr. Shultis said that while he was perfectly willing to accept the statement of the leading citizens that Arcadia now deserved this description, if it were not for the presence of ladies in the meeting, he could tell them just what kind of a time Arcadia had had in the past acquiring this peaceful status.

He then proceeded to read the association for the small attendance at the Orange Show on San Gabriel Day from the towns in the association, and strongly urged that next year the association put San Gabriel Valley over with a bang.

Mr. Mark Grimes of San Fernando asked the support of the association for the measure now before the legislature to erect a Junior College of Agriculture at San Fernando as a department of the University of California located in the Hollywood district. He explained that by having the Junior college in the San Fernando valley the same buildings and faculty would be available for the regular college course required and the students would have only a short trip to reach the experimental grounds. He also stressed the need of such a college of agriculture in the southern part of the State.

John Dillon, secretary of the Van Nuys Chamber of Commerce, spoke on the same subject, as did Mr. Reinholdt, well known in Sierra Madre as a former instructor in the Pasadena High school. The matter was referred to the board of directors for action at their next meeting.

Director Killian told of his trip to Washington in behalf of a tariff on lemons and walnuts and assured his hearers that the cause of the California growers had been well presented and that the committee had been most favorably impressed. He said they asked for what they felt they could honestly and in all fairness show was absolutely necessary to the prosperity of the industries, and while it might not be so large as some of the growers might wish, there was much more probability of obtaining it if the committee felt there was no attempt to capitalize the Republican victory and ask for an unusually high protective tariff.

The principal speaker of the evening was Judge Ben Goodcell of San Bernardino, whose speech was an appeal for a return to earlier American ideals of government. He called attention to the popular confusion of ideas in regard to the form of government existing in America, many using the term "democracy" and "republic" interchangeably, whereas actually they are wide apart. It is an essential principle of a democracy that the people rule directly; it is an essential rule of a republic that the people rule through representatives. The men who founded our government drew up our constitution founded a representative republic. In any great business such as a railroad for instance, the stockholders choose their representatives, the directors and officers, and then the business is run by those men and the executives they appoint. Any sensible person will admit it is better managed that way than if each stockholder had a voice in the details and in open meetings the management was decided upon by votes of those who attended.

In the same way, Judge Goodcell declared, our government is a big business or corporation in which every one of us is a stockholder, and the intention of the founders of this republic was that we were to choose our representatives and directors by ballot, and it is presumed that we would then they were to run the affairs of the country. By giving the universal suffrage, the danger of an aristocratic rule, was avoided, and by the representative form it was expected that laws would be passed after due deliberation and study and the danger of legislation in response to the prejudice and passions of the passing hour would be avoided.

While not naming them, it was plain that many of the speaker's remarks were aimed at the initiative and referendum measures. He called attention to the great numbers of measures the people of this State must pass upon at the polls and insisted that in the majority of cases very few had a clear or intelligent knowledge of the real purpose or final effect of these measures. He closed his remarks with an appeal for a wiping out of all sectional differences and jealousies and a renewed loyalty to one country and one flag.

The meeting in April will be held at Alhambra and it was announced that Frederick Warde would be the principal speaker of the evening.

SYDNEY CAVANAUGH DEAD

Malcolm Cavanaugh received a telegram Tuesday from Cleveland that his youngest son, Sydney, had died Monday from pneumonia. He was 35 years old and leaves a wife and two children, aged 7 and 2. Mr. Cavanaugh visited his parents in Sierra Madre twice during their residence here. He was a successful real estate dealer and had been connected with Cleveland's business interests for twenty years.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Cavanaugh visited their son and family in Cleveland Heights last summer.

Woman's Club

Social Afternoon

In preparation for the "Americanization" program which occupied the social afternoon, at the Womens Club on Monday, the Stars and Stripes hung in graceful folds in every conceivable nook and were formed into a beautiful shield which stood out in rich relief against the deep black curtain on the stage. The singing of "America" led by the school children who were guests of the club, accompanied by Miss Edith Evans, was entered into with much spirit by the ladies also. The speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. John C. Urquhart, in a few preliminary remarks, disclosed a sweet and charming personality, and won her way to the heart and attention of most every child present. Mrs. Urquhart has a state certificate to teach Americanization and her main idea, in her work among club women, seems to be to build up a better understanding of the causes which have led up to the need of this work and the spirit of America which underlies it. Mrs. Urquhart's efforts are now being largely directed toward Arts and Crafts exhibit of the homeland, the first ever given in this country, which will be held at Exposition Park, Los Angeles, from May 16 to June 6. At the conclusion of the program Mrs. J. Milton Steinberger gave a short report on the recent entertainment given by the drama section, stating the door receipts to be $188.78. Mrs. Frank Wright, with a few beautifully chosen remarks, in which she strove to express the high regard and appreciation of the drama section, for the time, energy and loving patience expended by Mrs. Steinberger, during every phase of the production, presented her with a beautiful bouquet of pink sweet peas, as a token of their love. A very appropriate poem was then read by Mrs. W. E. Anderson after which, the generally valuable little Mrs. Steinberger found herself speechless, then, for a few moments, with her eyes filled with tears of joy and surprise she sweetly thanked the ladies and the meeting closed with the singing of The Star Spangled Banner. A pleasant social hour followed, Mrs. C. W. Jones and Mrs. W. S. Hull acting as hostesses.

Inaugural Ball

This evening, March 4, the Grand Inaugural Ball will take place in anticipation of which, the club house has been extensively decorated with flags, making a most brilliant scene. The ball will be opened by a grand march and the committee is planning other attractive features, and making preparations for a large attendance. There will be excellent music, a four piece orchestra having been retained. A list of the patrons and patronesses follows:

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Osgood, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Lawless, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Jones, Mrs. Frederick Urban, Mrs. M. D. Goodfellow, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Dietz, Mrs. Donna Harter and Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Mason.

In Appreciation

The splendid feeling of reciprocity

which exists between the Womens Club and the Grammar School, fostering as it does a friendly relation, between Mothers-Teachers and children, cannot fail to have an effect for good which will be far-reaching. In this spirit of helpfulness, the school children cut about 2,000 red card board hearts, which were used by the Womens Club for decorating and for playing games, at the Club Valentine party, on Feb. 14.

A number of the flags with which the club house was decorated for the "Americanization Day" program were secured thru the courtesy of the school, and the teachers have already begun rehearsing the children for an entertainment which will be given at the coming flower show in April. The Womens Club is most grateful for these favors and stands ready to respond to any call for favors from the school.

Entertainment

Sustaining their reputation as lovers of clean amusement, Sierra Madrenas packed the Womens Club Saturday evening, when the Drama Section of the Womens Club put on two one-act plays the unusual cast of which has created much enthusiastic comment, during the past few weeks.

In the "Feast of the Holy Innocents," the curtain rose on a scene which reminded one of a lovely painting. The kind of a picture that the audience not only looks at, but lives. The Milk sisters, Mrs. W. A. Morgan and Miss Leah Fletcher, prim and precise and silk gowned, sitting sedately in their parlor, furnished a picture at once so intimate and real, one felt almost as though looking on, were intruding. The acting of both these ladies was entirely finished and at no time in the scene, even thru the most delicious comedy was one able to forget that these were two quite refined spinster ladies, just a wee bit tired, of their quiet life and longing for a little adventure.

Mrs. Woodson Jones, as Joan Obery, the Irish wife of the village blacksmith, gave just the right touch of personality to her interpretation of the ordinary Irish woman, without any time making the part seem common. Mrs. Genevieve Neutzel as Lizzie Opan, society leader of Lockport, was her own, sweet, vivacious self, the audience having the rare privilege of just drinking in her beauty and grace. While Jennie, the buson daughter of Joan, had only a minor part still her part was uncommonly well taken and disclosed latent talent for future development. At the close of this extremely high-class presentation, a curtain call brought all these splendid characters to the front where they were loudly applauded by the keenly appreciative audience. In a very short time the scenery was shifted, and the curtain rose on "The Neighbors," Mrs. Frank Wright as Mrs. Diantha Abel, and Mrs. J. C. Dickson as Grandma, occupying the stage, Mrs. Wright was acedely the star of this play, her acting was entirely professional, and one found oneself continually amused by the perfectly natural mannerisms which gave the professional stamp to her every act. Mrs. J. C. Dickson gave a very splendid interpretation to her part of the old Grandma, too old and useless to do anything but sew carpet rags, and truly startled the audience by showing herself very much alive when the occasion demanded. Her pathetic parts were played with feeling, and the changing of the voice to a high pitch, to simulate that of a garrulous old lady, a most difficult thing to do, added much to the realism of her part. Miss Maude Gray as Mrs. Elmina Moran, the gossip with a perpetual ache, made an entrance which set the house in an uproar of laughter, and when, after a long discourse on her aches and pains, she forgot them all and arose to her feet with a bound, upon hearing a startling piece of gossip, she brought the house down again. Inez, the daughter of Diantha, pretty and girlish in a becoming pink dress and large red hair-bow, was interpreted by Mrs. Margaret Bruegger, who charmingly beveled the fact that Peter, her lover did not make love to her, vehemently and Peter, the shy, clumsy lover, portrayed by Franklin Wright, acted the part so cleverly, one felt constrained to help him in his love making. His make-up was extremely good and one lost sight of the dapper Franklin in admiration of the awkward country boy. Mrs. Walter A. Anderson, as Mrs. Trot, continually fussing about a buffalo bug she had found in her house, gave a touch of brishness to the act, some paths being especially well enacted in the latter part of the play. E. R. Rhodes, Sr., as Ezra Williams had a splendid make-up, (as he always does) and in his role of the over-worked man, eternally growing about cord wood, furnished much amusement and some pathos when in the course of the play he finally did find time to pile up the Widow Ellsworth's wood, "as slick as a cat." Miss Yerdia Appleby, as Mrs. Carry Ellsworth, softened the hearts of all by her sweet gentle manner, receiving the kindly donations of "the neighbors" with a touching show of gratitude. In their entirety, both plays included acting which was very much worth while, and which should be encouraged. Mrs. J. Milton Steinberger as managing director is largely responsible for their unprecedented success, having entered into the undertaking with the same spirit of enterprise and indomitable energy which characterizes all of her work. And it was under her supervision that the beautiful new scenery, which added so much to the finish of the stage setting, was made possible, it being now the property of the Drama section.

Miss Florence MacAfee of Pasadena, the drama teacher, attended a number of the rehearsals, offering numerous helpful suggestions.

The Woman's club wishes to thank these ladies for their tireless efforts and the splendid cast, with whom, in their directors' own words, "it was a joy to work!" They extend thanks also to the two male members of the cast, E. Rhodes, Sr., and Franklin Wright, who are not members of the drama class, yet gave freely of their time and efforts. To several members of the Firemen's club, F. Henderson, R. Odwall and W. L. Hibbs, who gave of their services on the building of the scenery, to Franklin Wright, who covered the surface with paint, to Harry Caskey and Allie Miller, who acted as ushers and assisted in many other ways, and to Mesdames J. A. Osgood, W. S. Andrews, Hooker Jones, E. C. Newton and W. A. Anderson, who so kindly loaned furniture used in the stage setting.

AN EXCELLENT SERMON

"A Wonderful Tree," by Rev. W. J. Thompson

One of the finest sermons we have ever sat and listened to was preached from the pulpit of the First Congregational church last Sunday. It was educational. We heard a teacher in our schools say, "I wish that my entire class could have heard that sermon." We asked Dr. Thompson to give us a summary of the sermon and we think it well worthy of printing.

This "Tree" sermon is better than the one he delivered some time ago on "Doors," and we thought the "Door" sermon very good. Following is a summary of "A Wonderful Tree."

Text: Rev. 22, 1. "In the midst of it, and on either side of the tree, was the Tree of Life, which bare the fruit every month, and the leaves of the tree were for the healing of nations."

Trees have always interested and even fascinated mankind. Dr. William V. Kelley writes that "The Bethesda blind man who midway in his healing walk to Jesus, 'I see men as trees walking' suggests that trees and men are not so unlike each other."

There is a wonderful difference of disposition among trees. Certain trees are found in groups, while others stand apart. Of that which cultivates reserve and independence the elm is first. The tranquil lordship of one elm tree made George William Curtis write, one New England afternoon: "A stately elm is the archbishop of this green diocese. His flowing robes fill the air with grace. He rules the landscape round here!"

Of Thoreau, Emerson said: "As for taking his arm, I would as soon think of taking hold of an elm tree."

J. R. Lowell declared: "I care more for my trees than for my books," and literature contains few more felicitous figures of speech than Lowell's description of a loyal friendship: "A friendship covering forty years is the finest kind of shade tree I know of."

When the statue of Horace Greeley was unveiled in New York City, his daughter placed on the statue a wreath of oak leaves from the trees near his old home with these words inscribed: "The trees send greeting to one who loved them."

John Ruskin affirmed that, "No man can be far wrong in temper of mind who really loves trees." "Oh bare must be the shadeless ways, And bleak the path must be, Of him, who, having open eyes Has never learned to see. And so has never learned to love The beauty of a tree!"

But he is wise who 'mid life's woes, Wherever he may be, Still keeps a heart that holds a nook Of calm serenity; Who loves God's world with mind and soul— And so can love a tree."

There are many curious trees. The "Sticky Tree" of New Zealand, which catches flies and birds. The "Sneeze-wood Tree" of Natal, South Africa, is so called because one cannot see it without sneezing violently!

The "Bitter Tree" of Senegal produces a nut containing vegetable butter. The "Sugar Tree," or Douglas fir tree of British Columbia produces a rare kind of sugar. The sugar is found among the leaves in lumps, and is very pleasant to the taste. The "Water Tree" of the Australian desert is the malee tree which yields quantities of pure water. The "Blanket Tree" of Ecuador is true to its name. When an Ecuador Indian wants a blanket he hunts up a demajagua tree and takes from it a six-foot section of its peculiar soft bark which gives a blanket of soft texture and will last for several years.

The "Cork Tree" of Portugal is well known. The "Singing Tree" of the West Indies sings in a low key as the wind blows through its leaves. Southern California also has its singing trees, not far from Topanga Canyon. The "Stinging Tree" of Queensland is very beautiful, but stings worse than a bee. The "Iron Tree" of Africa is also true to its name—if you want a leaf you must file it off!

Then there is the "Illuminated Tree" in India. In the darkest night this tree can be seen a mile distant! The "Angry Acacia" of Nevada quivers violently when disturbed and emits an unpleasant odor. It takes this bad tempered tree an hour or two to get back to good humor.

The fastest growing tree is the eucalyptus which grows five times faster than any other tree. The lightest tree is the ambach tree of the Nile. The oldest tree is the "bald cypress," which has been standing at Santa Maria del Tula, Mexico, for at least six thousand years!

The tallest tree of California's big trees is 325 feet in height, but the tallest trees in the world are found in Southeast Australia—gum trees 471 to 500 feet in height!

The most distinguished tree in the United States is a tree that owns itself. It is a white oak tree in Athens, Georgia. No one can buy or sell it. No one owns the land on which it stands rooted. The man who owned the tree left this provision in his will: "In consideration of the great love I bear this tree and the great desire I have for its protection for all time, I convey to it entire possession of itself, and all land on eight feet of the tree on all sides."

At Woolthorpe, Lincolnshire, England, an aged apple tree was cut down in 1850 to preserve its wood from decay because 150 years previous to its fall it was 150 years old. Isaac Newton, lay at its feet and caught one of God's greatest secrets when this tree dropped an apple.

Abbie Brown tells us: "I lay at the foot of an ancient tree And let God's universe talk to me." God himself speaks to us through the Bible—which is full of trees. At its opening in Genesis stands the "Tree of Knowledge," and its close in Revelation stands the "Tree of Life," while in the books between Genesis and Revelation are trees innumerable.

The most sacred thoughts we can have about trees center in Him, "who bore our sins in His own body on the tree."

In Rev. 22, 2, we read: "In the midst of the street was the tree of life." In the midst of the street—what a wonderful truth is here illustrated! We look for a fruitful tree in the rich soil of the orchard, carefully tended in a congenial place, but the Tree of Life is found in the midst of the street.

My brothers, the Christian religion is not a sickly, puny thing unfitted for the severe test of the world's traffic; nor is it a mere ideal removed from the world of business. It is "at home" in the market place in the city in the city as well as in the country.

The Christ who loved the country loved the city too; The busy streets and restless crowds our Lord well knew, Where men bargained daily in the market place There He offered freely the riches of His Grace!

A famous labor leader writes: "When men ask me, 'Where is the Church and what is it doing?' I reply: 'In city slums, in bleak Labrador, in India, China, Africa, America, and wherever there is need of real helpfulness, there you will find the Christian church at work. It is worth noting that while the church membership of the United States is only one-third of the entire population it furnishes more than 75 per cent of the social workers. That is my answer to those who want to know what the Christian church is doing. The fact is, religion—the Christian religion—is the most practical thing on earth. In the midst of the street is the Tree of Life.'

"This is the gospel of labor—ring it ye bells of the kirk, The Lord of Love came down from above To live with the men that work!"

"In the midst of the street, and on either side of the river, was the Tree of Life." I like that. Here is a glorious Gospel. It includes "either side of the river" here as well as yonder, now as well as in the future—earth as well as heaven! "All will be well," we say, and seek to gather Light for each trial from tomorrow's day.

Oh that we might this truth lay hold on rather— Our Lord is here, and is well today! Today His mercy and His power enfold us, Today His blessed footprints mark our way, Today our Saviour's Hand is strong to hold us, All things are ours—and all is well today."

Let us remember that "on either side of the river" is the Tree of Life, "which bare twelve manner of fruits." Here is extraordinary fruitfulness, and the product of our spiritual life is intended to be above the ordinary.

"And yielded her fruit every month." So whatever season we approach the Tree of Life we shall find fruit corresponding to our need. In life's springtime, summer, autumn, and even in its winter season we shall find the "fruits of the Spirit" and the peace of God that passeth all understanding.

And the leaves of the tree were for the healing of the nations. Where is healing to be found? Education, philosophy, scientific research, social reform all these are good, but all these combined cannot heal the individual or the nations. Only the leaves of the tree of life can bring the healing to the nations. Sir Douglas Haig,

LARGE CROWD WILL VISIT ST. RITA'S SHRINE

Extensive preparations are being made to take care of the crowd that will come to Sierra Madre Sunday to celebrate the first anniversary of St. Rita's Shrine. More than two thousand people are expected, and it is hoped that the weather man will favor Sierra Madre with a glorious day.

St. Rita's Shrine is the only one of its kind in Southern California and it is little over a year since it was established. It is the only one in all California where organized pilgrimages were ever attempted. This shrine is becoming better known every day through the medium of over 800 members of St. Rita's Society, organized in connection with the shrine. Letters are being sent from time to time to the members and this keeps Sierra Madre and its shrine always before their eyes.

All during the year individual pilgrims come up on a visit, especially on Sundays, and spread the fame of our city as well.

The Pacific Electric railway will run a number of special trains on the above date to accommodate the many people and are making all arrangements for a satisfactory service.

Prof. John Marquardt who has had extensive orchestral experience will have charge. Others interested are Mrs. Homer Glidden, solo cornetist, of the Woman's Symphony Orchestra of Los Angeles, Miss Marion Evans, viola, Mr. and Mrs. George Morgridge and Mr. James N. Hawks. This will afford a nucleus of professional caliber. Places are open for a number of additional instruments and musicians who might be interested in joining are invited to communicate with any of those named. Rehearsal will be held at Kindergarten building at 7:30 Thursday, March 10.

REGISTER YOUR NAMES

Every day some person comes into the News office to ask for the address of some one in Sierra Madre. It is generally some one from "back east" who is calling on an old friend. Many of these people are rooming in Sierra Madre, and the publisher of this paper would like to find some scheme whereby these people could be located. A register in the office of the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and an invitation to strangers to register immediately upon coming to town would be of great assistance.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Camp arrived home from San Francisco Sunday. R. A. Howard and wife are spending a few days at Catalina.

The Nebraska picnic will be held in Sycamore park, Los Angeles, March 12th.

Miss Dolores F. Christie in confined to her home, 255 West Highland this week on account of sickness.

Dr. Holt of Geuda Springs, Kansas, who is visiting in Southern California, visited Z. Beeks and wife, Friday.

W. L. Howard and wife of Long Beach were Sunday guests at the O. M. Hare home, 297 West Highland.

Mrs. Otto Kusel and daughter of Edinburg, Texas, have arrived in Sierra Madre and will spend the winter here.

Mrs. Cassie Hickox of Springfield, Ill., visited Saturday and Sunday with Mrs. F. B. Kinsman, 234 Santa Anita Court.

Miss Annie M. Green and Mrs. J. B. Weeks returned yesterday from Long Beach, where they visited Miss Green's sister, Mrs. F. L. DeCoudres.

Messrs. E. H. and C. A. Lessard of the California Torrens Corporation, were in Sierra Madre Thursday and ordered advertising for their company in the News. These gentlemen claim that the Torrens titles are on the increase.

Mrs. Frank Kinney and two daughters arrived Tuesday from Eugene, Oregon, and will visit the families of Rudolph Hartman and Arthur Evans until Mr. Kinney arrives, when they expect to locate in Southern California permanently.

Miss May Squire is moving this week from 178 East Central to 1175 North Michigan avenue, Pasadena. Miss Squire has been living in Sierra Madre for three years and is leaving only because she cannot get a suitable house in which to live.

FARM BUREAU SUGGESTS

FAIR WAGE SCALE

Among the most interesting developments of recent weeks among citrus growers is the action taken at the last meeting of the Covina Farm Bureau Center at which, after a report of a wage scale committee, which had been working on the question for more than a month, a wage scale was adopted and suggested for the citrus growers of the county.

According to the report of the committee, which had surveyed the factors entering into the costs of labor, there has been a reduction in food prices of nearly 40 per cent, in clothing prices of nearly 30 per cent, in costs of stock feed from 20 to 50 per cent, together with certain drops in the cost of implements.

Attention was called to the fact that for the past six months lemon growers have not been receiving costs of production, while orange growers have seen their returns diminish daily to the point where at the present time the f. o. b. returns are approximately one-third of those of a year ago.

The feeling was unanimous that reductions in wages must come and suggested the following wage scale as a just and reasonable one.

Tractor work, $2.00 per hour; team work, $7.00 per nine-hour day, tools furnished; common labor, 35 cents an hour.

A GOOD HOME PRODUCT

The publisher of this paper recently had occasion to buy some orange marmalade. We had never tried Ward's so we called for Ward's. It was good. The sweet variety is very good, and it tastes like it was made from pure sugar. It looked clean. We have never been inside of the Ward institution, but from the appearance of the article manufactured we would judge that it is a clean, well organized institution.

WORTHY OF YOUR ATTENDANCE

Members of the News organization were guests of the National Orange Show at San Bernardino Saturday. It was a big country fair with oranges instead of horses. The citrus exhibit showed much time and thought and always the scheme for advertising.

The Associated Chambers of Commerce of San Gabriel valley won first prize in the mechanical feature exhibit, showing the Angel Gabriel standing on a mountain of citrus fruit ready to blow his horn.

The Southern California Editorial association were given a luncheon at 1:30 at the Stewart, followed by a short business session and a visit to the show.

FREDERICK WARDE

ILLUSTRIOUS ACTOR

If you are from the East and are thinking of returning some time soon, by all means visit the Mission Play at San Gabriel. Your visit to California will not be complete until you have seen Frederick Warde as Fray Serra in the Mission Play.

Representatives of the News visited the Mission Play Sunday afternoon and some of us were astonished at the splendor of color, the splendid music and the dramatic climax at the close of the second act, when Father Junipero appears in the play for the last time and offers this prayer: "Hear, O Lord, thy servant, whose days upon earth are about to close, even as the day has closed upon this scene. Bring to the foot of thy cross these wild gentiles of the plains and hills. Bless this dear land of California, and all its people, now and in the centuries to come. This is the prayer of thy servant, Junipero, who is old and worn and who must soon say farewell."

TO PROTECT SHIPPERS

In order to protect shippers from the operation of the Statute of Limitations, G. W. Luce, Freight Traffic Manager of the Southern Pacific Company has instructed Southern Pacific agents to advise shippers and consignees in their territories that according to the law department of the United States Railroad Administration all claims, even for straight overcharges arising from transactions during the period of Federal control of the railroads, must be filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission before March 1, 1921.

The necessity for filing of overcharge claims with the Commission before March 1 next, lies in the fact that under section 206, paragraph (c) of the Transportation Act of 1920, the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission to award reparation as to shipments moving during Federal control, is specifically limited to one year after the termination of Federal control, and that consequently in any case where it might be necessary to secure a refund, the Commission would be barred from jurisdiction unless such claim had previously been duly registered with it on or before February 28, 1921.

SHOW COMING

Campbell Bros. Trained Animal show will appear here on March 10. Their advance agent has secured the privilege to erect their tents and place their paraphernalia on the vacant acreage corner of Mountain Trail and Central avenue. This show travels with two special cars, which will be run here over the P. E. railroad tracks.

MONROVIA FETE IN MAY

Monrovia's birthday comes February 17, but it was not convenient to hold festivities on this date this year, and Saturday, May 21 has been selected as a gala day. The celebration calls for a parade in the morning, sports in the afternoon and a street dance at night.

TRAIN CUTS MAIL TO PIECES

Sierra Madre people have been receiving some thoroughly scrambled and muddled up mail the past week, due to a pouch from the east bound train last Friday afternoon rolling beneath the cars. The pouch was pretty thoroughly cut to pieces and some of the mail badly damaged.

Only a small quantity appears to have been destroyed or damaged beyond identification.

Agent Knowles and Messenger Twycross pursued the scattered mail a mile east of the station. Since then additional scattered pieces have been brought in by the section crew from as far as Arcadia, where they were carried by the atmospheric suction or by being lodged against the cars and later flying loose.

Sechi Nakagawa, one of our pioneer Japanese residents, thought he was in deep trouble through loss of his passport from Japan and other valuable papers which were included in a special delivery letter from Pasadena. The envelope was cut open and only a portion of the contents recovered at first. Naka thought he was liable to deportation because of having nothing to show his right to be in America. But next day the passport and other papers were recovered far down the track and Naka was happy.

The only thing of apparent value or interest remaining at the post office awaiting identification is a bunch of kodak pictures and films from Gonyaw Mo. The envelope is missing and the accompanying letter contains no means of identification.

DON'T KILL THE BIRDS

Complaint has been made that small boys with air rifles have been killing birds in the neighborhood of Bonita and Baldwin avenues. Perhaps there are too many sparrows, but the song birds and some other varieties should not be molested. Perhaps the boys have not been taught to be careful of the life of a bird. If they were not, a little more teaching is necessary.

Don't kill the birds.

SUNDAY, FEB. 27—

"BUNTY PULLS THE STRINGS"

The quiet, uneventful life of a little old-fashioned Scotch village suddenly becomes surcharged with tension when venerable old Thomas Biggar is charged with embezzlement. But Biggar has a young daughter who knows just what to do—but you're coming to see it.

Also a good comedy and International News.

MON. & TUES., FEB. 28 & MAR. 1—

MARY PICKFORD, in

"THE LOVE LIGHT"

Written and directed by Frances Marion. Miss Pickford again demonstrates that she is the greatest artist of the silver screen. She carries herself to heights never before attained by the "World's Sweetheart."

Also a Prizma.

WED. & THU., MARCH 2 & 3—

TOM MOORE, in

"HOLD YOUR HORSES"

Adapted from the famous Saturday Evening Post story, "Canavan," "The Colonel's lady and Mrs. O'Grady are sisters under their skin," wrote Kipling. And Mr. Canavan, having married for the second time, agreed with him. His first wife was Irish and weighed about 250 and was fond of tapping him with a poker. His second wife was wealthy and blue-blooded and a snob. But they both responded to the same treatment. See this delicious comedy and learn the secret.

And another good comedy.

FRIDAY, MARCH 4—

WILLIAM FARNUM, in

"DRAG HARLAN"

In the old days Providence was always on the side of the man with the speediest gun hand. It was a case of survival of the fittest. "Drag" Harlan's magic gun was his best life insurance. See William Farnum, the wonderful, in the title role of "Drag" Harlan.

Also a Larry Semon Comedy, "Dull Care."

SATURDAY, MARCH 5—

Thrill follows thrill in rapid succession. The gorgeous luxury of New York's race life is emphasized by the simple splendor of nature's wonders in "Trumpet Island," a Tom Terriss production, adapted by Lillian and George Randolph Chester from the story of Gouverneur Morris.

Also a good comedy and a Paramount magazine.
